PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

My professional qualifications are based on my life experiences both as a minister and as an academic and administration roles for the church. These areas include ministry, education, research publication, current research projects, teaching, committee work, and volunteer service. My experience in ministry has combined three areas: pastoral work, academic teaching, and healthcare-chaplaincy. The recurring themes of my ministry are: integration, creativity, and wholeness approaches.

CHAPLAINCY

- 2012-2013 -- Four units (three months each) of Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) at two medical centers (Newport Beach Presbyterian Medical Center—three units, and Loma Linda University Medical Center—one unit). CPE is the health care clinical training of chaplains preparing them as bedside emotions and spiritual intervention experts. These two CPE centers are accredited by the Association of Clinical Pastoral Education (see <http://www.acpe.edu>).
- 1994-2014 -- Loma Linda, California, USA—Taught at Loma Linda University for 20 years clinicians and chaplains combining health care and pastoral ministry.
- 2010-2013 -- I was central in the development of chaplaincy training including Certificate of Denominational Studies for Chaplains, Masters in Chaplaincy, Doctoral Degree with Chaplaincy Concentration, DMin degree developed with Andrews University Seminary with a focus on chaplaincy training.
- 2015-present -- Vice President of Clinical Operations for the Adventist Chaplaincy Ministry Institute (ad honorem).

VOLUNTERISM

In dealing with the role of church in the world there my focus is engaging with contemporary culture. I have been involved in projects uniting efforts of church, health workers, and volunteers in various projects:

- Volunteer founding Academic and Continuing Education Vice-President of General Conference of Seventh-day Adventist office of Dr. Mario Ceballos, Endorser, Adventist Chaplaincy Ministry Institute, Silver Springs, MD.
- Ontario health initiative coordinated efforts to unite church leaders with healthcare workers promoting weight loss and healthy living utilizing local houses of worship to promote the initiative (ministers from Ontario, CA received training and were connected with healthcare workers volunteers).

Professor of Anthropology & Profesor del Centro Latino

- Volunteer ministry and outreach pastor for Glendale City church of Seventh-day Adventist, Glendale, CA. Involved with activities to promote the church's mission of inclusiveness, wholeness, and redemption.
- Assemblies of God Southern Pacific District as a consultant and Principal Investigator for a detailed research on church life dealing with ministry, faith, and health issues.

MINISTRY

- As a convert of Jesus I learned to follow Him in service and ministry. My ministry has three areas of expertise: chaplaincy at academic institutions and hospitals, church pastoral work, and church planting evangelism.
- As a pastoral care provider I have learned to serve those in need without a burden to "fix them" while focusing on a ministry of presence and representing Jesus for those in need.
- I seek to integrate practical theology approaches into missiological questions and research in order to learn how to serve the church of God.
- All aspects of my life are guided by my views on ministry. I am a pastor academician, a pastor chaplain and a pastor researcher always seeking to advance the kingdom of God!

EDUCATION

- Doctoral degree undertaken at Harvard University School of Education with a concentration in cultural psychology and human development. I applied all my learning at Harvard to the examination of the role of the church and beliefs in dealing with racism and discrimination as well as economic disadvantage of being a minority in the USA. I examined how society's discrimination of a historically disadvantaged group of Latinos (Puerto Ricans) was ameliorated and overcome by faith via the social support of the church and the ideology of the Gospel. I examined via ethnographic work how the church operate in liberating the oppressed and developed a model to understand how to replicate this liberation via mission in the inner city and anywhere oppressed people encounter the Gospel and form a supportive community of faith. I studied at Harvard University School of Education Department of Human Development and Psychology with a concentration in Cultural Psychology the dissertation (at HUGSE we were able to write a project or a dissertation I selected the academic option—a dissertation) entitled: "Religion, Education, and Success: In the Leominster Puerto Rican Seventh-day Adventist Church Community". Human development and cultural psychology are perfect disciplines for a Professor of Intercultural Studies with a focus on mission with a theorist/practitioner framework because they serve as theoretical vehicles to undertake a reading of the Bible for the two areas of theology from a practical theology perspective that facilitates the Gospel's work among the unreached from American cities to remote areas of the world.
- MA in Hebrew Scriptures and archaeology from Andrews University complemented with the year of Fellowship at the Semitic Museum at Harvard University qualify me to read the Hebrew Scriptures in the original language as a source of truth for understanding

Christian Mission and Leadership. My studies in archaeology qualify me to bring the culture of the biblical times into the reading of the Bible today as me make the biblical teachings relevant in a multicultural context.

- My BA in Theology with a minor in Biblical Languages gave me the basic tools for doing theology and reading the scriptures in Greek and Hebrew.

RESEARCH PUBLICATION

Books on race relations in the Western world in particular:

- Sechrest, Love; Ramirez-Johnson, Johnny; Yong, Amos, Editors. Can White People be Saved? (Downers Grove, Illinois: InterVarsity Press) 2018.
- Ramirez-Johnson, Johnny. Race Relations In A Racialized Society. (Downers Grove, Illinois: InterVarsity Press) to come soon.

Two books that discuss the multicultural, intergenerational and multi language realities of the church in North America seeking to understand the role of faith and beliefs in answering three questions:

- How can the church best promote the members' love of Jesus as their personal savior?
- How can the church best promote a healthy and holy lifestyle of its members avoiding high risks behaviors?
- How to best keep the members active and committed to the church?
- The book titles are (for details see PUBLICATIONS section):
 - An Ethnography of Social Mobility: Immigrant Membership in a Seventh-day Adventist Puerto Rican Ethnic Church
 - AVANCE: A vision for a new Mañana.

Multiple articles dealing with the roles of culture, health, and church affairs:

- "Holiness versus mercy: How theology both hinders and facilitates the church's response to HIV/AIDS pandemic"
- "'Deeply Woven Roots': Health Initiatives and Community Social Services of Faith Based Organizations of the Hidalgo County, Texas"
- "Disconnection, Depression, and Spirituality: A Study of the Role of Spirituality and Meaning in the Lives of Individuals with Severe Depression"
- "'Amiga' Theology: Collaborating with Latino Churches"
- "Is Faith an Emotion? Faith as a Meaning-Making Affective Process: An Example from Breast Cancer patients"
- "An ethnographic study of patients' cautionary views about integration of spirituality into their medical care"
- "Preliminary Report of Wholeness Research of LLUSD Alumni"
- "Prayer with Patients: Can Physicians Predict Who Wants It?"

- “Christianity, work and poverty: Implications for a philosophy of international development”

CURRENT RESEARCH PROJECT

I am a practical theologian who works at the intersect of the social sciences (i.e. ethnography as my primary research tool) and theology. I inform my research with three sources: the Bible as the source of dogma and truth, social sciences as an instrument to understand human needs, and the history of the church including the prophetic writings (contemporary and within the history of the church) and the family of theological truth accumulated by the church. I seek to answer questions of the needs of the church and society. I have combined qualitative and quantitative methods in a consistent manner. As a cultural psychologist specialized in practical theology I have several writing projects on which I am currently working.

- “Racial Profiles in a Racialized Society” research approved by Human Subject Research Committee at Fuller Theological Seminary.
- Working with the Assemblies of God Southern Pacific District as a consultant and Principal Investigator for a detailed research on church life and how to answer four questions:
- Writing various projects using practical theology in order to answer missiological questions including:
 - Sex workers views of God and the church
 - A Christian anthropology from the margins
 - A four skills approach to intercultural and interracial relations

TEACHING

Since 1979 I have taught religion/theology full time at two colleges and two university and one seminary. I am currently teaching full time at Fuller Theological Seminary. Back in 1980 I also taught at the Seminario Latinoamericano in San Jose Costa Rica.

- Fuller Theological Seminary where I have a tenured appointment at School of Intercultural Studies as Professor of Anthropology specializing in research methods and methodologies as well as ways of looking at issues of missions with practical theology approaches. I also have appointment at the Centro Latino of the School of Theology teaching in Spanish.
- I have been a member of ten doctoral thesis committees for LLU’s various schools, Andrews University Seminary, and Montemorelos University participating as an expert in practical theology, religion and health as well as multicultural aspects.
- I have been the Advisor for multiple doctoral students at Loma Linda University (PsyD, PhD) and Andrews University Seminary (DMin) and Fuller Theological Seminary (PhD, DMin).
- Massachusetts, USA—Atlantic Union College where I developed the bilingual ministries program within the Theology Department. Preparing ministers for the Portuguese, Spanish and French language groups within the North American Division territories at the BA level.

- Costa Rica—Universidad Adventista de Centro America (currently UNADECA formerly CADES) where I initiated and developed the Hebrew language and Old Testament requirements of the Licenciatura in Theology degree.

SERVICE

I am a convert to Jesus Christ and the truth of the Word of God who followed Jesus under duress; my father persecuted and tried to kill me as I flee home to follow Jesus. I have been involved in planting churches around the world including Inter America, North America and Lebanon. I am involved in leadership committee roles at the General conference for Hispanic Ministries, Chaplaincy and Education. I have been a volunteer chaplain at Saint Bernadine Medical Center, serve as mentor at a local Hispanic churches, conduct Bible studies and do pastoral care counseling for students and community. Preach around the world for revivals, evangelism and church growth. I have also served actively to Fuller Theological Seminary as a member of the Fuller Theological Seminary Hispanic Advisory Committee between 2002-2006.
